THE OPENING UP OF ECONOMY BROUGHT BUSINESSES AND CONSUMERS OUT OF “DEPRESSION”

The exit of economy from “lockdown” has partially lifted businesses from the deep depression of the second quarter. The Bank of Albania’s survey showed that the Economic Sensitivity Index (ESI) increased 23 points, as it had reached the lowest historical level in the second quarter. However, ESI is far from full recovery and still remains significantly below the historical average. The lowest growth among businesses, by 9.7 percentage points, was shown by the confidence indicator in the industry sector.
